

NEW YORK HERALD, TUESDAY, JUNE 23, 1863.—TRIPLE SHEET.

INTERESTING FROM NORTH CAROLINA

Activity of the White and Black Recruiting Service.

Rebel Troops Withdrawn from Wilmington and Charleston.

&c. &c. &c.

HATTERAS INLET, N. C., June 18, 1863.

The United States transport steamer Albany, Captain Louis, from New York, arrived here at eight A. M., on her way to Newbern.

Captain Wm. P. Cropper, of the steaming Gulah, recently appointed harbor master of this port, and Augustus Fry, fireman, were accidentally killed on the 16th instant, by the giving way of a line while towing a steamer.

The enlargement of Fort Hatteras, the key to the inland waters of North Carolina, is completed.

The citizens of Cape Hatteras Banks raised another company for the First North Carolina artillery on the 17th instant.

Recruiting of both white and black men in this department is progressing finely. At are taking up arms in favor of the Confederacy.

Lionard Graves, the commanding naval officer at this post, is doing efficient service in guarding this inlet against blockade runners.

Capt. Chas. W. Fisher, the naval hero of these waters, has returned.

Mrs. Major General Foster is recovering from her severe illness, to the great joy of the whole department.

Our Northern Correspondence.

NEWBERRY, N. C., June 15, 1863.

Rebel Reports from Above.—The Yankee from Anson, Anderson, and Moore, for Defense—Splendid Pernicious of Major General Foster—Union Concription in North Carolina—A Neander to Become an Open Port—The Rebels Very Hurry—Important Sanitary Movements—Personal Matters—Market for Naval Stores, &c.

The latest reports from above indicate that the rebels have but little desire to make a foray upon Newbern or the town of Washington or Plymouth. As Greenville they have built strong intrenchments and adopted other measures which tend to show that they intend to fight the summer campaign on the defensive. A large proportion of the forces of the rebels have undoubtedly gone westward, with the intention of suppressing any loyal rising in Eastern Tennessee—an event not at all improbable. We are all looking with great anxiety to the success of the Union army at Vicksburg and to victories on the Rappahannock. Newspapers are so irregularly received here that we are not at all posted as regards the successes or defeats the Union armist sustain in other parts of the country. Major General Foster is taking care of the affairs of his own department, without apparent reference to contingencies, present or remote. He is preparing himself for any emergency, and is cordially sustained in his praiseworthy and energetic endeavors by every officer and soldier in his department. When the opportunity arrives, the people will be astonished to find out the ability and indomitable industry Gen. Foster has exhibited in surrounding his main points with the means of defense, as well as affording a cover from which the enemy can be assailed with success whenever occasion requires.

UNION CONSCRIPTION IN NORTH CAROLINA.

The following order has been issued by General Foster, and causes no little stir among the citizen non-combatants in the department:

GENERAL ORDERS—No. 64.

HEADQUARTERS, DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA,
BIRMINGHAM ARMY CORPS, NEWBERN, June 9, 1863.

The following order has been issued by General Foster, to make citizens between the ages of eighteen and thirty-five within the limits of this department shall be at once enrolled, and the rolls forwarded to these headquarters. Commanders of districts will appoint enrolling officers, and take such steps as may be necessary to fully and promptly carry out this order. By command of Major General FOSTER.

SOUTHERN HOWEY, Assistant Adjutant General.

Those in the North, therefore, who think to escape the draft by enrolling soldiers from their ranks, and the door bars them from their exemption from military responsibility as well as in the Department of North Carolina as in any of the Northern or Eastern States. This is as it should be, and those who grumble should be made to understand that the rebels have had their day without delay or circumspection. If they desire the protection of government let them do what they can to sustain a share of its vast burthen. If they do not care for any such protection, let them be exposed to the evils of a state of anarchy, and feel the effects of their want of patriotism.

IN NEWBERRY TO BECOME AN OPEN PORT?

This question is propounded every day, and no one here appears to be much alarmed to furnish a definite answer. The people of Newbern, however, are not to be disengaged by the simple proclamation of the President to that effect, without the delay of thirty or sixty days required in such cases by international maritime law. Others equally competent to judge profess to know.

The question will settle itself, as soon as General Foster's proclamation is issued, at this time, when, marching through the lines to the enemy has but recently been effectively checked by the determined and vigorous action of General Spike. The rebels have been compelled to give up their plan to march to the Atlantic coast by the capture of Colera, Hester, the capable survey of the Treasury Department, has not fully concluded his investigations in regard to a change in the revenue code of North Carolina, and until he has proposed and submitted the result of his examinations it is not known whether and to what extent the revenue laws apply to that portion of the state now in the occupancy of the federal forces will be made.

THE REBELS VERY HURRY.

This question is propounded every day, and no one here appears to be much alarmed to furnish a definite answer. The people of Newbern, however, are not to be disengaged by the simple proclamation of the President to that effect, without the delay of thirty or sixty days required in such cases by international maritime law. Others equally competent to judge profess to know.

The question will settle itself, as soon as General Foster's proclamation is issued, at this time, when, marching through the lines to the enemy has but recently been effectively checked by the determined and vigorous action of General Spike. The rebels have been compelled to give up their plan to march to the Atlantic coast by the capture of Colera, Hester, the capable survey of the Treasury Department, has not fully concluded his investigations in regard to a change in the revenue code of North Carolina, and until he has proposed and submitted the result of his examinations it is not known whether and to what extent the revenue laws apply to that portion of the state now in the occupancy of the federal forces will be made.

THE UNION VERY HURRY.

This question is propounded every day, and no one here appears to be much alarmed to furnish a definite answer. The people of Newbern, however, are not to be disengaged by the simple proclamation of the President to that effect, without the delay of thirty or sixty days required in such cases by international maritime law. Others equally competent to judge profess to know.

The question will settle itself, as soon as General Foster's proclamation is issued, at this time, when, marching through the lines to the enemy has but recently been effectively checked by the determined and vigorous action of General Spike. The rebels have been compelled to give up their plan to march to the Atlantic coast by the capture of Colera, Hester, the capable survey of the Treasury Department, has not fully concluded his investigations in regard to a change in the revenue code of North Carolina, and until he has proposed and submitted the result of his examinations it is not known whether and to what extent the revenue laws apply to that portion of the state now in the occupancy of the federal forces will be made.

THE UNION VERY HURRY.

This question is propounded every day, and no one here appears to be much alarmed to furnish a definite answer. The people of Newbern, however, are not to be disengaged by the simple proclamation of the President to that effect, without the delay of thirty or sixty days required in such cases by international maritime law. Others equally competent to judge profess to know.

The question will settle itself, as soon as General Foster's proclamation is issued, at this time, when, marching through the lines to the enemy has but recently been effectively checked by the determined and vigorous action of General Spike. The rebels have been compelled to give up their plan to march to the Atlantic coast by the capture of Colera, Hester, the capable survey of the Treasury Department, has not fully concluded his investigations in regard to a change in the revenue code of North Carolina, and until he has proposed and submitted the result of his examinations it is not known whether and to what extent the revenue laws apply to that portion of the state now in the occupancy of the federal forces will be made.

THE UNION VERY HURRY.

This question is propounded every day, and no one here appears to be much alarmed to furnish a definite answer. The people of Newbern, however, are not to be disengaged by the simple proclamation of the President to that effect, without the delay of thirty or sixty days required in such cases by international maritime law. Others equally competent to judge profess to know.

The question will settle itself, as soon as General Foster's proclamation is issued, at this time, when, marching through the lines to the enemy has but recently been effectively checked by the determined and vigorous action of General Spike. The rebels have been compelled to give up their plan to march to the Atlantic coast by the capture of Colera, Hester, the capable survey of the Treasury Department, has not fully concluded his investigations in regard to a change in the revenue code of North Carolina, and until he has proposed and submitted the result of his examinations it is not known whether and to what extent the revenue laws apply to that portion of the state now in the occupancy of the federal forces will be made.

THE UNION VERY HURRY.

This question is propounded every day, and no one here appears to be much alarmed to furnish a definite answer. The people of Newbern, however, are not to be disengaged by the simple proclamation of the President to that effect, without the delay of thirty or sixty days required in such cases by international maritime law. Others equally competent to judge profess to know.

The question will settle itself, as soon as General Foster's proclamation is issued, at this time, when, marching through the lines to the enemy has but recently been effectively checked by the determined and vigorous action of General Spike. The rebels have been compelled to give up their plan to march to the Atlantic coast by the capture of Colera, Hester, the capable survey of the Treasury Department, has not fully concluded his investigations in regard to a change in the revenue code of North Carolina, and until he has proposed and submitted the result of his examinations it is not known whether and to what extent the revenue laws apply to that portion of the state now in the occupancy of the federal forces will be made.

THE UNION VERY HURRY.

This question is propounded every day, and no one here appears to be much alarmed to furnish a definite answer. The people of Newbern, however, are not to be disengaged by the simple proclamation of the President to that effect, without the delay of thirty or sixty days required in such cases by international maritime law. Others equally competent to judge profess to know.

The question will settle itself, as soon as General Foster's proclamation is issued, at this time, when, marching through the lines to the enemy has but recently been effectively checked by the determined and vigorous action of General Spike. The rebels have been compelled to give up their plan to march to the Atlantic coast by the capture of Colera, Hester, the capable survey of the Treasury Department, has not fully concluded his investigations in regard to a change in the revenue code of North Carolina, and until he has proposed and submitted the result of his examinations it is not known whether and to what extent the revenue laws apply to that portion of the state now in the occupancy of the federal forces will be made.

THE UNION VERY HURRY.

This question is propounded every day, and no one here appears to be much alarmed to furnish a definite answer. The people of Newbern, however, are not to be disengaged by the simple proclamation of the President to that effect, without the delay of thirty or sixty days required in such cases by international maritime law. Others equally competent to judge profess to know.

The question will settle itself, as soon as General Foster's proclamation is issued, at this time, when, marching through the lines to the enemy has but recently been effectively checked by the determined and vigorous action of General Spike. The rebels have been compelled to give up their plan to march to the Atlantic coast by the capture of Colera, Hester, the capable survey of the Treasury Department, has not fully concluded his investigations in regard to a change in the revenue code of North Carolina, and until he has proposed and submitted the result of his examinations it is not known whether and to what extent the revenue laws apply to that portion of the state now in the occupancy of the federal forces will be made.

THE UNION VERY HURRY.

This question is propounded every day, and no one here appears to be much alarmed to furnish a definite answer. The people of Newbern, however, are not to be disengaged by the simple proclamation of the President to that effect, without the delay of thirty or sixty days required in such cases by international maritime law. Others equally competent to judge profess to know.

The question will settle itself, as soon as General Foster's proclamation is issued, at this time, when, marching through the lines to the enemy has but recently been effectively checked by the determined and vigorous action of General Spike. The rebels have been compelled to give up their plan to march to the Atlantic coast by the capture of Colera, Hester, the capable survey of the Treasury Department, has not fully concluded his investigations in regard to a change in the revenue code of North Carolina, and until he has proposed and submitted the result of his examinations it is not known whether and to what extent the revenue laws apply to that portion of the state now in the occupancy of the federal forces will be made.

THE UNION VERY HURRY.

This question is propounded every day, and no one here appears to be much alarmed to furnish a definite answer. The people of Newbern, however, are not to be disengaged by the simple proclamation of the President to that effect, without the delay of thirty or sixty days required in such cases by international maritime law. Others equally competent to judge profess to know.

The question will settle itself, as soon as General Foster's proclamation is issued, at this time, when, marching through the lines to the enemy has but recently been effectively checked by the determined and vigorous action of General Spike. The rebels have been compelled to give up their plan to march to the Atlantic coast by the capture of Colera, Hester, the capable survey of the Treasury Department, has not fully concluded his investigations in regard to a change in the revenue code of North Carolina, and until he has proposed and submitted the result of his examinations it is not known whether and to what extent the revenue laws apply to that portion of the state now in the occupancy of the federal forces will be made.

THE UNION VERY HURRY.

This question is propounded every day, and no one here appears to be much alarmed to furnish a definite answer. The people of Newbern, however, are not to be disengaged by the simple proclamation of the President to that effect, without the delay of thirty or sixty days required in such cases by international maritime law. Others equally competent to judge profess to know.

The question will settle itself, as soon as General Foster's proclamation is issued, at this time, when, marching through the lines to the enemy has but recently been effectively checked by the determined and vigorous action of General Spike. The rebels have been compelled to give up their plan to march to the Atlantic coast by the capture of Colera, Hester, the capable survey of the Treasury Department, has not fully concluded his investigations in regard to a change in the revenue code of North Carolina, and until he has proposed and submitted the result of his examinations it is not known whether and to what extent the revenue laws apply to that portion of the state now in the occupancy of the federal forces will be made.

THE UNION VERY HURRY.

This question is propounded every day, and no one here appears to be much alarmed to furnish a definite answer. The people of Newbern, however, are not to be disengaged by the simple proclamation of the President to that effect, without the delay of thirty or sixty days required in such cases by international maritime law. Others equally competent to judge profess to know.

The question will settle itself, as soon as General Foster's proclamation is issued, at this time, when, marching through the lines to the enemy has but recently been effectively checked by the determined and vigorous action of General Spike. The rebels have been compelled to give up their plan to march to the Atlantic coast by the capture of Colera, Hester, the capable survey of the Treasury Department, has not fully concluded his investigations in regard to a change in the revenue code of North Carolina, and until he has proposed and submitted the result of his examinations it is not known whether and to what extent the revenue laws apply to that portion of the state now in the occupancy of the federal forces will be made.

THE UNION VERY HURRY.

This question is propounded every day, and no one here appears to be much alarmed to furnish a definite answer. The people of Newbern, however, are not to be disengaged by the simple proclamation of the President to that effect, without the delay of thirty or sixty days required in such cases by international maritime law. Others equally competent to judge profess to know.

The question will settle itself, as soon as General Foster's proclamation is issued, at this time, when, marching through the lines to the enemy has but recently been effectively checked by the determined and vigorous action of General Spike. The rebels have been compelled to give up their plan to march to the Atlantic coast by the capture of Colera, Hester, the capable survey of the Treasury Department, has not fully concluded his investigations in regard to a change in the revenue code of North Carolina, and until he has proposed and submitted the result of his examinations it is not known whether and to what extent the revenue laws apply to that portion of the state now in the occupancy of the federal forces will be made.

THE UNION VERY HURRY.

This question is propounded every day, and no one here appears to be much alarmed to furnish a definite answer. The people of Newbern, however, are not to be disengaged by the simple proclamation of the President to that effect, without the delay of thirty or sixty days required in such cases by international maritime law. Others equally competent to judge profess to know.

The question will settle itself, as soon as General Foster's proclamation is issued, at this time, when, marching through the lines to the enemy has but recently been effectively checked by the determined and vigorous action of General Spike. The rebels have been compelled to give up their plan to march to the Atlantic coast by the capture of Colera, Hester, the capable survey of the Treasury Department, has not fully concluded his investigations in regard to a change in the revenue code of North Carolina, and until he has proposed and submitted the result of his examinations it is not known whether and to what extent the revenue laws apply to that portion of the state now in the occupancy of the federal forces will be made.

THE UNION VERY HURRY.

This question is propounded every day, and no one here appears to be much alarmed to furnish a definite answer. The people of Newbern, however, are not to be disengaged by the simple proclamation of the President to that effect, without the delay of thirty or sixty days required in such cases by international maritime law. Others equally competent to judge profess to know.

The question will settle itself, as soon as General Foster's proclamation is issued, at this time, when, marching through the lines to the enemy has but recently been effectively checked by the determined and vigorous action of General Spike. The rebels have been compelled to give up their plan to march to the Atlantic coast by the capture of Colera, Hester, the capable survey of the Treasury Department, has not fully concluded his investigations in regard to a change in the revenue code of North Carolina, and until he has proposed and submitted the result of his examinations it is not known whether and to what extent the revenue laws apply to that portion of the state now in the occupancy of the federal forces will be made.

THE UNION VERY HURRY.

This question is propounded every day, and no one here appears to be much alarmed to furnish a definite answer. The people of Newbern, however, are not to be disengaged by the simple proclamation of the President to that effect, without the delay of thirty or sixty days required in such cases by international maritime law. Others equally competent to judge profess to know.

The question will settle itself, as soon as General Foster's proclamation is issued, at this time, when, marching through the lines to the enemy has but recently been effectively checked by the determined and vigorous action of General Spike. The rebels have been compelled to give up their plan to march to the Atlantic coast by the capture of Colera, Hester, the capable survey of the Treasury Department, has not fully concluded his investigations in regard to a change in the revenue code of North Carolina, and until he has proposed and submitted the result of his examinations it is not known whether and to what extent the revenue laws apply to that portion of the state now in the occupancy of the federal forces will be made.

THE UNION VERY HURRY.

This question is propounded every day, and no one here appears to be much alarmed to furnish a definite answer. The people of Newbern, however, are not to be disengaged by the simple proclamation of the President to that effect, without the delay of thirty or sixty days required in such cases by international maritime law. Others equally competent to judge profess to know.

The question will settle itself, as soon as General Foster's proclamation is issued, at this time, when, marching through the lines to the enemy has but recently been effectively checked by the determined and vigorous action of General Spike. The rebels have been compelled to give up their plan to march to the Atlantic coast by the capture of Colera, Hester, the capable survey of the Treasury Department, has not fully concluded his investigations in regard to a change in the revenue code of North Carolina, and until he has proposed and submitted the result of his examinations it is not known whether and to what extent the revenue laws apply to that portion of the state now in the occupancy of the federal forces will be made.

THE UNION VERY HURRY.

This question is propounded every day, and no one here appears to be much alarmed to furnish a definite answer. The people of Newbern, however, are not to be disengaged by the simple proclamation of the President to that effect, without the delay of thirty or sixty days required in such cases by international maritime law. Others equally competent to judge profess to know.

The question will settle itself, as soon as General Foster's proclamation is issued, at this time, when, marching through the lines to the enemy has but recently been effectively checked by the determined and vigorous action of General Spike. The rebels have been compelled to give up their plan to march to the Atlantic coast by the capture of Colera, Hester, the capable survey of the Treasury Department, has not fully concluded his investigations in regard to a change in the revenue code of North Carolina, and until he has proposed and submitted the result of his examinations it is not known whether and to what extent the revenue laws apply to that portion of the state now in the occupancy of the federal forces will be made.

THE UNION VERY HURRY.

This question is propounded every day, and no one here appears to be much alarmed to furnish a definite answer. The people of Newbern, however, are not to be disengaged by the simple proclamation of the President to that effect, without the delay of thirty or sixty days required in such cases by international maritime law. Others equally competent to judge profess to know.

</div